

Materials & Resources

The choice of materials for a home is critical for reducing its environmental impact and should take into consideration the extraction, processing, and transportation required. Materials made from recycled products and which can be recycled after use will help will reduce landfills and the expenditure of non-renewable resources.

Options available to existing homes when making repairs, alterations or additions:

Source of Materials

Environmentally Preferable Products

Waste Management/Recycling